

FINDS TOO MANY SUBSTATIONS

Chief of Police Will Disperse

With Three.

Saving of $4,000 a Year To the City.

Col. Lindsey Looks Over Department's Buildings.

SEVENTH CONSIDERED MODEL

It is more than likely that three police substations will be discontinued by the Board of Investigation following a searching investigation into the usefulness of the outlying police stations made by Chief of Police H. Watson Lindsey and Night Chief Pat Ridge.
Col. Lindsey completed his tour of the district houses yesterday afternoon and will make his report to the Board of Public Safety within a few days. Before any action is taken the Board of Public Safety members will in all probability make a personal investigation.

Useless For Police Purposes.

Marydale, West Broadway and the "Point" stations are the ones Col. Lindsey will not touch. He considers all three useless from the police protection. The Marydale substation is located on the twentieth street. It is only four blocks from the modern and finely-equipped South district station, which is on Eighteenth street and Garland avenue. As all the patrolmen now report to the South district station, the Marydale is little more than a stable, costing the city more than $100 in salaries, rent and maintenance.

The West Broadway substation is at Thirty-eighth street and Broadway. It is only a few blocks away from the West Louisville substation. Only five policemen are stationed there. The most serious trouble in the place is in the eyes of Col. Lindsey. The station is situated not more than fifty feet from the corner of the city hall. He believes that the West Louisville substation could basically part the territory covered by the West Broadway station. If the south side of Broadway, which is built up with fine residences, lay inside the city limits, the West Broadway station would be a better one, according to Col. Lindsey. The "Point" police office has disqualifications similar to those of the Main station.

Two Days' Investigation.

Col. Lindsey toured the district and substations in the eastern part of the city Friday and on the same day took in the Fourth district headquarters. Yesterday afternoon he looked over the Seventh district station, the West Louisville station, the station at the Parkland and the Maryland substations. He found all these places in good condition. Col. Lindsey inquired particularly to know whether the horses were well provided for in the way of food and bedding. All the stations visited were clean and orderly.

Visit To Model Station.

It was the first time Col. Lindsey had been in the new Seventh district station at Eighteenth street and Garland avenue. This station house was provided for under an appropriation made by the Warh administration and was the first of a new type of station. It is a model of its kind. Capt. Hogan showed Col. Lindsey and Maj. Ridge about the premises. Everything was in apple-pie order. The station was a fine assurance of the three substitutions Col. Lindsey, after he had carefully inspected the place and the price proposed by the city, said: "I can discover absolutely no need for them, as I have either the same or other stations or district stations. The three stations are now costing the city about $100,000 each. I don't think this money can't be put to better use in my opinion. It may be that there are some things to be done, but the things remaining which I have overlooked, but I can't see them at present. I don't think the city has any property in Louisville is the Seventh district station, as it is a model structure."

physical condition, but several of them are poorly located. A few of the buildings do not seem well adapted for police purposes. I will recommend a change in the location of one."

Paris, Nov. 28.—An individual, believed, however, to be a foreigner and having an extraordinary grievance against the War Department, shot and seriously wounded Gen. Verard to-day on the steps of the Hotel Continental. The general was entering the hotel to attend a banquet. The man was arrested. Later it was learned that he had mistaken Gen. Verard for Gen. Brun, Minister of

The attempted assassination created a panic that occurred a few moments after President Fallières left the Hotel Bristol, nearby, where he was calling on King Manuel of Portugal. The crowd of the people and policemen in the streets first thought that it was an attempt against the life of the President, but later it was known that the King of Portugal. Hundreds ran in the direction of the shots, and several of the officials were killed. Gen. Verand, an assailant, who proved to be an Algerian, was overpowered with difficulty and was found to be a simple talker with no power to fire. He was armed with revolvers and daggers.

Gen. Verand received bullets in the neck and forehead and his condition is considered dangerous.

PLACED IN ROANOKE JAIL FOR SAFE-KEEPING.

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 28.—Howard Little, yesterday sentenced to be electrocuted for the murder of Mrs. Betsey Johnson, was taken to the Roanoke Jail. The Meadows family, near Hurley, last September, was brought to Roanoke from Grandfather night and placed in jail for safe-keeping.

At the rear of the third floor are rooms for massage, for rest, and also for the practice of suggestion. In the "suggestion room" will be delicate apparatus which can indicate the state of the nerves and even the effect of the emotions.

On the second floor is the suite ward for semi-private patients. The third floor has similar accommodations for women. Private rooms occupy the fourth and fifth floors and part of the sixth. The institute has a roof garden for summer use.

Much of the work will be done on a voluntary basis, but for worthy cases will be received without compensation. Patients may be taken into the wards at a cost of from $10 to $15 a week. The dispensary is to be open daily, except Sundays and holidays, for charity cases only. Physicians may also send patients to the institute for examination for diagnosis or for treatment in the wards.

It is expected that courses of instruction for physicians and nurses will be announced later.
